CHAPTER FIFTEEN

Church Legacy: A Tale of Two Ministers

RECAP

- “Whether or not you serve in full time ministry, you interact with others in the church. You play a role within your local body of believers both as an example and an influence. How you fulfill that role can help determine just how effectively the next generation impacts this world with the gospel. Every member of the body of Christ creates a ripple effect with their life that touches other members of the Body.”

DISCUSSION STARTERS

- 1. Pastor was “training me under the radar”. The author is convinced you are training others who are observing you up close or from a distance, whether you know it or not.
 - a. Does that concern you or inspire you?
 - b. Does this affirm you or motivate you to change?

- 2. Rev. Newburn was a man of “common sense and wisdom and the chemistry to bring them together”.
 - a. Discuss the difference between common sense and wisdom, as well as the value of both.
 - b. What role do each play as you mentor the next generation?
 - c. Perhaps you admire the wisdom of others and desire such for yourself. How is it attained?

- 3. Discuss the role of mentors in your life, both past and presently.
