

THE MESSAGE BOARD

THE GAME ISN'T OVER | TOM GREENE

CHAPTER ONE

Getting Into The Game: A Son's Life

RECAP

- “Children spend a lifetime living up to or down to the legacy of their father. When Dad isn't there for them, they try to overcome rejection, to fill the void created by the lack of influence. When Dad is present, the sky's the limit for that child's potential.”

DISCUSSION STARTERS

- Recall your childhood memories of attempting to live up to or down to the legacy of a father.
- How do you understand the love and relationship with our heavenly Father if you did not have such with your earthly father?
- How should you deal with it when your hopes and dreams are not endorsed by others?
- What should you do to ensure that your business and family relationships line up with Christian values?