

RECAP

- “Life comes in chapters. So does marriage. And just as there is a plot arc in a great book, there are key chapters in your marriage. The first five years can be the biggest challenge. If you establish a successful game plan early on, you’re well positioned to make the most of your years with your partner.”

DISCUSSION STARTERS

- What are you doing today that reflects or expands upon what you did in the past to enhance the relationship with your spouse?
- Setting aside gifts that can be purchased or produced, what do you attempt to give to your spouse?
- Review page 28 as a checklist: How does your present report card grade your personal commitment to a successful marriage?
- Is Jesus Christ the foundation of your marriage? If so, share some of the ways that it is evident. If not, what must we do to make it so?
